Enter a video URL and click "Submit." Once submitted, you will be sent a confirmation message and then redirected to your video. Your Content We just love to watch great videos. To promote and publicize your videos, you can include a link in your post to your video on YouTube. Your post should be unique and interesting. At a minimum, make sure that your post includes a title, description and video embed code. You can also select the "Always Embed" option when uploading your videos. Doing this will automatically embed the link for your video in your post, so that users can watch your videos from any page on your blog. Give the video thumbnail a shot of action, like a close up or a fun shot. The thumbnail image can either be the same as the primary image in your post (if applicable), or a separate one. Promote your video on your blog. You can leave a link in your post with a short description of the video, like: "Click to watch a cool video from " Some people like to promote their videos on Twitter and Facebook, but this can be a good way to spread the word about your video. A powerful tool to help you do this is Google +1. Simply add a +1 button for your video on YouTube (you can find the option in the YouTube video settings). This will link the video to your Google profile and create a link for your video to be added in Google +1. You can also use Google's +1 feature for more than just YouTube. If you have any Google properties, such as your Google+ page, you can use the +1 button to like or share to help promote your other Google properties. For example, if you have a Google+ page for your business, you can use the +1 button to add the page and its followers to your Google profile. Similar to using the +1 button, you can use Google's +1 feature for more than just Google+. If you have any Google properties, such as your Google+ page, you can use the +1 button to like or share to help promote your other Google properties. For example, if you have a Google+ page for your business, you can use the +1 button to add the page and its followers to your Google profile. Google+ is an integral part of the web. Be sure you have a Google+ account. If 82157476af
